Introduction

FORB Prisoners: 22 Countries in the Dock
Blasphemy Prisoners: 8 Countries in the Dock

_Human Rights Without Frontiers_ (HRWF) has compiled a list of prisoners that were arrested for interrogation or have been detained for any length of time in 2013 on grounds that constitute an infringement of their right to freedom of religion or belief (FORB). The cases listed in this report relate incidents of violations on the basis of: (1) freedom to change religion or belief, (2) freedom of expression, (3) freedom of association, (4) freedom of worship and assembly, or (5) conscientious objection to military service.

This Prisoners’ List was elaborated on the basis of available information collected from a wide range of public and private sources.

In some countries, it has been difficult to determine whether certain cases should be designated FORB prisoners. Some clerics and other believers have been sanctioned for their peaceful public advocacy to protect religious freedom or human rights. Others have called for legal or political reforms needed for their implementation. Still others have defended religious freedom advocates in court, participated in pro-democracy campaigns, claimed territorial autonomy for their ethno-religious group, defended the rights of their ethnic group or striven to preserve their culture. These actions are undoubtedly laudable and the objectives consistent with international standards on human rights; however, HRWF considers such prisoners to be human rights activists and defenders and not necessarily FORB prisoners.
In this report, HRWF defines FORB prisoners as persons who have been arrested and detained for reasons primarily connected to their faith as practised individually or in community.

HRWF has identified 22 countries with such FORB prisoners in 2013: Armenia, Azerbaijan, China, Eritrea, India, Indonesia, Iran, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Laos, Libya, Malaysia, Nagorno-Karabakh, North Korea, Russia, Saudi Arabia, South Korea, Sudan, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan, Uzbekistan and Vietnam. Due to the lack of transparency in the judicial system in some countries or insufficient data available from existing general or specialized sources of information, HRWF makes no claim that this list covers all the countries which had FORB prisoners in 2013 or to have identified all FORB prisoners in the ones listed.

For instance, Eritrea should arguably concede its first place ranking to North Korea; however, access to information about possible FORB prisoners in North Korea is extremely limited. In practice, there is no religious freedom in this country, yet no data is made available about arrests, detention and imprisonment of North Koreans on the ground of freedom of religion or belief.

Also, conscientious objectors to military service are often forgotten in reports on religious freedom and as prisoners of conscience. This report intends to correct this oversight by highlighting the situation of Jehovah’s Witnesses in South Korea.

Each year the number of Jehovah’s Witnesses that are imprisoned in South Korea for their conscientious objection to military service varies between 600 and 800. From 1950 to 2012, the government sentenced 17,107 Jehovah's Witness objectors, making a combined total of 32,413 years of imprisonment. However, this problem could be resolved by introducing some form of alternative civilian service, an action that South Korean authorities have refused to take, despite repeated condemnations by the United Nations.
Armenia, with its over 30 FORB prisoners, is in a similar position in respect to military conscription. Concerning the objection to military service on the grounds of religion or belief, the UN Human Rights Committee General Comment 22 Para. 11 on the ICCPR, states that:

Many individuals have claimed the right to refuse to perform military service (conscientious objection) on the basis that such right derives from their freedoms under article 18. In response to such claims, a growing number of States have in their laws exempted from compulsory military service citizens who genuinely hold religious or other beliefs that forbid the performance of military service and replaced it with alternative national service. The Covenant does not explicitly refer to a right to conscientious objection, but the Committee believes that such a right can be derived from article 18, inasmuch as the obligation to use lethal force may seriously conflict with the freedom of conscience and the right to manifest one’s religion or belief. When this right is recognized by law or practice, there shall be no differentiation among conscientious objectors on the basis of the nature of their particular beliefs; likewise, there shall be no discrimination against conscientious objectors because they have failed to perform military service. The Committee invites States parties to report on the conditions under which persons can be exempted from military service on the basis of their rights under article 18 and on the nature and length of alternative national service.

Human Rights Without Frontiers (HRWF) has compiled a second list of prisoners that were sentenced to prison terms on the grounds of blasphemy, defamation of a religion or insulting religious beliefs.
Human Rights Without Frontiers (HRWF) has identified 8 countries with prisoners on the grounds of blasphemy in 2013: Egypt, Indonesia, Iran, Pakistan, Saudi Arabia, Tanzania, Tunisia and Turkey.

The main purpose of these two lists is to stimulate advocacy in favour of the release of these prisoners.

Throughout 2013, HRWF used this material in its contributions to the EU Human Rights Dialogues with various countries.

North Korea should certainly appear on top of this list but due to the lack of available information about this country, it has been impossible to rank it. According to the 2012 Report of the US Commission on International Religious Freedom, there may be 6000 Christians incarcerated in Prison No 15 in the northern part of the country but the reasons of their imprisonment are not known.
ARMENIA

Jehovah’s Witnesses

Names: See table below with 33 names
Charges: Evasion of the call-up to military or alternative service
Statement of the defendants: Performing military service is incompatible with their faith
Places of detention: Nubarashen Prison (near Yerevan), Erebuni (in Yerevan) and Kosh (near Ashtarak)
Court decisions: Between 2 and 3 years in prison
Article of the criminal/civil/administrative code or law: Article 327, Part I which states that “Evasion from recurring draft military or alternative service call-up, training exercise or mobilization, without any order defined by Legislation of the Republic of Armenia as grounds for exemption, is punished with arrest for a maximum term of two months, or imprisonment for a maximum term of three years” (modified 16.12.2005).
Date of release: See table below
Other information: On 7th July 2011, the Grand Chamber of the European Court of Human Rights (ECtHR) rendered its judgment that Armenia had violated the right to freedom of conscience in the case Vahan Bayatyan v. Armenia. Bayatyan is one of over 400 Jehovah’s Witnesses who have been convicted and imprisoned for conscientious objection to military service since Armenia’s accession to the Council of Europe in January 2001. In doing so, Armenia has failed to honour its commitment given as a condition of its accession, that it institute a genuine civilian alternative service for conscientious objectors and pardon all those who had previously been convicted.

After the Grand Chamber’s decision in the case Bayatyan v. Armenia, the prosecutor’s office and the courts of Armenia continued to prosecute and imprison young men who are conscientious objectors.
A law on alternative civilian service that is totally independent from the Ministry of Defence was finally adopted during the first semester of this year but by mid-2013, none of the 33 Jehovah’s Witnesses that were in Armenian prisons because of their conscientious objection to military service had been released. They should however recover their freedom later this year after new court proceedings on the basis of the new legislation.

CHINA

The government of China recognizes five religions: Protestantism, Catholicism, Buddhism, Taoism and Islam.

The registration of particular religious groups is a prerogative of the state. For each of the five officially recognized religions there is a government-affiliated association that monitors and supervises its activities: the Chinese Buddhist Association, the Catholic Patriotic Association, the Protestant Three-Self Patriotic Movement, the Chinese Islamic Association and the Chinese Taoist Association. All religious groups must register with the appropriate religious organization to be allowed to carry out their activities legally.

A number of Catholic congregations loyal to the Pope, Protestant communities and Muslim groups refuse state monitoring. They are tolerated by the authorities, but all their activities in public or in private are considered illegal, a recurrent charge used against them when the regime perceives them as a challenge and a danger to the dominant ideology. So-called “evil cults”, like Falun Gong, are heavily targeted by the authorities.

Tibetan Buddhists who follow the Dalai Lama and the Muslim Uyghurs are also particularly persecuted not only for their religious activities but also for their political engagement.

The U.S. Congressional Executive Commission on China (CECC) has published a list of 7,014 prisoners that have been detained or imprisoned in China since 10th October 2012 for political or religious reasons, including 1,484 cases of prisoners who are currently believed to be incarcerated and 5,530 who were released or executed or who escaped or died while in detention or soon after their release (http://www.cecc.gov). The CECC considers that there are likely many more than the 1,484 verifiable cases of current political and religious imprisonment in China and works on an on-going basis to update its Political Prisoner Database.
The HRWF Watch List hereafter does not claim to be exhaustive but shows the magnitude of the repression affecting religious believers in China. Only the cases related to freedom of religion stricto sensu have been selected (freedom of association, freedom of assembly and worship and freedom of expression) and not religious prisoners who have been arrested, detained or imprisoned on other grounds.

Msgr. COSMA Shi Enxiang, underground bishop of Yixian (Hebei)

Date of birth: 1932

Date and place of arrest: 13th April 2001 in Beijing

Charges: Never been revealed

Court decision: No information is available

Place of detention: His whereabouts are unknown
Other information: Msgr. Shi Enxiang has suffered long periods in prison from 1957 until 1980, including hard labour, first on a farm in Heilongjiang, then as a coal miner in Shanxi. After being ordained a bishop in 1982 he was again arrested in 1983 and sent to prison for three years, followed by three years of house arrest. In 1989 – following the establishment of the Episcopal Conference of underground bishops – he was arrested once again and was only released in November 1993. The authorities also tried to arrest him in 1996 but failed after he escaped.

Fr. CUI Tai, underground priest of the diocese of Xuanhua (Hebei)

Date and place of arrest: He was taken away by staff of the Religious Affairs Bureau on 22nd June 2011
Charges: Never been revealed
Court decision: No information is available
Place of detention: His whereabouts are unknown
Other information: Fr. Cui disappeared while in police custody 22nd June 2011 after members of the government’s Religious Affairs Bureau dragged him away. Since that time there has been no information on his whereabouts. He had previously been often arrested and then released. During his periods of detention, he suffered hunger and his health drastically deteriorated. In 1993, while undergoing a sentence of three years in prison he was beaten and lost two teeth. In 2001, due to an accident, the police discovered his identity as a priest and detained him in an isolated place in the mountains, forcing him to undergo political sessions. He was later released, but could never freely carry out his ministry, being under constant surveillance.

Fr. GAO Jiangping and another priest

Place of residence: Diocese of Suyian, Inner Mongolia
Date of Arrest: 31st January 2012
Charges: The Diocese of Suiyuan does not exist according to the Chinese government, as it is part of the illegal underground Catholic Church

Statement of the defendant: Incompatibility between the allegiance to the regime and his loyalty to the Roman Catholic Church and the Pope

Fr. Joseph Lu GENJUN, vicar general of the underground diocese of Baoding (Hebei)

Date and place of arrest: He disappeared in police custody 17th February 2006
Charges: Never been revealed
Court decision: No information is available
Place of detention: His whereabouts are unknown
Other information: In 1998, Palm Sunday, he was jailed for a short period (perhaps to keep him from celebrating Masses during Holy Week). In 2001 he was sentenced to three years of "re-education through labour", after being accused of having conducted illegal missionary activities that undermine the social order (because he did not adhere to the Catholic Patriotic Association). He was released in 2003, but in May 2004 he was arrested along with another priest shortly before giving a lecture on natural methods of birth control and moral theology. The two were kept for several days in Dingzhou prison, near Anguita (Hebei).

Fr. LIU Honggen, underground priest of the diocese of Baoding (Hebei)

Date and place of arrest: 27th December 2006
Charges: He refused to join the Catholic Patriotic Association
Court decision: Unknown
Place of detention: Prison of Qingyuan

Thaddeus MA Daqin (Bishop of Shanghai)

Charges: Resignation from the state-controlled Catholic Patriotic Association (CPA)
Statement of the defendant: Incompatibility between the allegiance to the regime and his loyalty to the Roman Catholic Church and the state-controlled CPA

Place of detention: Since 7th July 2012 he has been under house arrest at the Sheshan Regional Seminary in a Shanghai suburb

Other information: Joseph Liu Yuanlong, a vice chair of the Catholic Patriotic Association (CPA), confirmed on 12th December 2012 that the government-sanctioned Catholic bishops’ conference in China had revoked the appointment of Thaddeus Ma Daqin as auxiliary bishop of Shanghai, saying he violated the CCPA rules for Episcopal ordinations. A statement released by the Vatican on 13th December 2012 stated that even legitimately established and Vatican-recognized bishops’ conferences “do not have the power to name or approve a bishop, to revoke his mandate or to impose sanctions on him.”

Fr. MA Wuyong, underground priest of the diocese of Baoding (Hebei)

Date and place of arrest: August 2004, in the village of Suijiazhuang (Quyang County, Hebei)
Charges: He refused to join the Catholic Patriotic Association.
Court decision: Unknown
Place of detention: Prison of Qingyuan
Other information: Fr. Ma and eight other priests had gathered to celebrate their first year of ordination. At least 20 police cars then arrived, began carrying out a door to door search and arrested them. Before the Chinese New Year 2006, Fr. Ma was temporarily released from prison. He was re-arrested a month later, after attending the funeral of a priest of Baoding, Fr. Chen Baidu.

Fr. WANG Chengli, underground priest of the Diocese of Heze (Shandong)

Age: 50
Date and place of arrest: 25th August 2011
Charges: He refused to join the Catholic Patriotic Association.
Last court decision: 2 ½ years of “re-education through labor” (forced labor)

Place of detention: First Dongming prison and then Jining concentration camp, over 150 miles from his county

Msgr. WU Qinjing, official bishop of the diocese of Zhouzhi (Shaanxi)

Date and place of arrest: November 2007

Charges: He refused to join the Catholic Patriotic Association

Court decision: Unknown

Place of detention: Unknown

Other information: Since November 2007 Msgr. Wu has been kept under house arrest in the minor seminary in Xian with limits on his activities. Bishop Wu was secretly ordained as a bishop of the official diocese of Zhouzhi, without the permission of the local Catholic Patriotic Association. For this reason, since his ordination was made public (May 2006), the government has blocked all of his activities and has kidnapped him, forcing him to memorize the "Regulations on Religious Affairs". He is forbidden to carry the Episcopal insignia or carry out any activities as a bishop.

Fr. ZHANG Jianlin, underground priest of the diocese of Xuanhua (Hebei)

Date and place of arrest: He was taken away by staff of the Religious Affairs Bureau on 22nd June 2011

Charges: Never been revealed

Court decision: No information is available

Place of detention: His whereabouts are unknown

Other information: In July 2009, Fr. Zhang was taken by police and placed under house arrest in a courtyard attached to the building of a government office. He was been given permission to receive visitors, but was subjected to heavy physical and psychological tactics to force him to support the Council of Chinese Bishops (not recognized by the Holy See) and to join the Catholic Patriotic Association. After seven months of detention he was released, but was kept under constant control, he could not move freely, and was forbidden to practice his ministry. On 24th May 2008 he was arrested in Nanjing, for trying to go to the Marian shrine of Sheshan and participate in the celebration of the World Day of Prayer for the Church in China, convoked by Pope Benedict XVI. Brought back to Hebei, he served a period of detention in Xuanhua.

Msgr. James Su ZHIMIN, underground bishop of Baoding (Hebei)

Date of birth: 1932
Date of arrest: 8th October 1997
Charges: Unknown
Court decision: No information is available
Place of detention: His whereabouts are unknown
Other information: Zhimin was first arrested in March 1996 while, with Francis An Shuxin, he led a procession of Catholics to a Marian shrine near the village of Donglu in Hebei. He then escaped the following month, went into hiding and wrote an open protest letter to the National People’s Congress. He was captured on October 8, 1997. While the Chinese government provides no information on Msgr. Zhimin, he was sighted on 15 November 2003 at a hospital in Baoding undergoing an eye operation and treatment for a heart ailment. According to a 5 March 2013 AsiaNews report Msgr. Zhimin remains in police custody. Before 1996 Msgr. Su Zhimin spent at least 26 years on and off in prison or forced labour camps, branded as "counter-revolutionary," since he has refused since the 1950s to join the Patriotic Association, which wants to build a national Church independent of the pope. In all, he has already spent 40 years in captivity.

Jehovah’s Witnesses

58 Jehovah’s Witnesses in prison

Imprisonment of conscientious objectors to military service

The national military service requirement makes no provision for conscientious objection. To avoid being arrested by the ever-present military police that patrol the streets, most male Jehovah’s Witnesses between the ages of 18 and 40 go into hiding. Those found are arrested and taken to a military camp, where, once they express their conscientious objection to military service, they are detained and usually tortured. Some of those of military age have managed to flee the country to avoid prosecution; some have been caught while fleeing.

Three Jehovah’s Witnesses, Paulos Eyassu, Isaac Mogos and Negede Teklemariam, have been imprisoned in the Sawa prison since 24th September 1994 because of their conscientious objection to military service. No charges have ever been filed against them and they have never been tried in court.

Since 2008, Eritrean authorities have taken additional measures to suppress Jehovah’s Witnesses, arresting and imprisoning elderly men, several women and children as young as two years old. Many Witnesses have fled the country; those who remain must exercise extreme caution in carrying out any religious activity.

Imprisonment and abuse of Jehovah’s Witnesses

There are 56 Jehovah’s Witnesses imprisoned in the Sawa and Meiter prison camps. Of these, 15 are known to be imprisoned for their conscientious objection to military service. Others were arrested while attending Christian meetings, publicly sharing their faith or for reasons unknown. None of those imprisoned have been formally charged or given a trial and sentenced. Most do not know how long they will remain in prison. Twenty-three are 60 years of age or older; two are 85 years old. Two children aged two and three years old were imprisoned with their mothers in the 4th Police Station in Asmara for two and a half years until their release on 4th January 2012. Prisoners are denied visitors, including family members.

Death in prison

Yohannes Haile. On 16th August 2012, Yohannes Haile, a 68-year-old Witness and father of nine, died while imprisoned at the Meiter prison camp. According to reports, he succumbed to the excessive heat and a lack of hydration while being held in a metal building half-buried in the ground. He was apparently transferred to a hospital in Meiter for treatment the week prior to his death. He had been held since 18th September 2008, when he was arrested without charges.

Misghina Gebretinsae. In July 2011, Misghina Gebretinsae, a 62-year-old Witness and father of four, also died while imprisoned at the Meiter prison camp, enduring excessive heat and lack of hydration while being held in a metal building half-buried in the ground. He had been held since 10th July 2008, when he was arrested without charges.

General prison conditions at the Meiter Camp

On 5th October 2011, all 25 male Witnesses who were imprisoned at the Meiter camp (including the abovementioned Yohannes Haile) were transferred from the regular prison facility to an area for special punishment. There they were placed in a half-buried metal building by night and spent their days outside in an open-air structure with a thatched roof. The lack of a balanced diet and sufficient water posed serious threats to their health.
Since the death of Yohannes Haile in August 2012, the Meiter prison authorities have moved the other Witness prisoners from the metal building to an outside pen in the same special punishment area. Three elderly Witnesses of the group are also in a critical state of health due to the extreme heat they endured over the summer months.

These were the same conditions to which Misghina Gebretinsae was subjected prior to his death in July 2011.

New arrests

On 21st April 2012 a number of Jehovah’s Witnesses attended a funeral of a fellow believer in the city of Keren. An undercover security agent who was present at the funeral arrested several Witnesses after the service was over. Although some were later released, ten of them are still in detention—four in Keren and six who have been transferred to the Meiter Camp. As noted on the prisoners’ list, the four prisoners remaining in Keren are over 70 years old—two of whom are 85 years old. No further information is available on their condition.

Imprisonment and release of children

On 28th June 2009, Eritrean police arrested and imprisoned 23 Jehovah’s Witnesses who were meeting peacefully for worship in a private home in Asmara. Those arrested included the elderly, women and children as young as two years old. Although the elderly women and some of the children were soon released, two of the children (aged two and three years old) and their mothers were held at the 4th Police Station in Asmara until 4th January 2012.

Every year the government tries and convicts 400 to 700 young Jehovah’s Witnesses as conscientious objectors to military service. Since 1950, the government has sentenced 17,107 Jehovah’s Witnesses in South Korea, making a combined total of 32,413 years for their conscientious objection to military service.

The UN Human Rights Committee’s decision on 1st December 2006 ruled that South Korea violated Article 18, paragraph 1, of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (ICCPR). This decision found an infringement of freedom of conscience in the case of two Jehovah’s Witnesses imprisoned for their conscientious objection to military service. On 24th March 2011, the Committee issued a similar ruling in the case of 100 other Witnesses; 438 other Witness complaints are still pending before this Committee. Both Committee decisions

CONCLUSIONS

On 24 June 2013, the Council of the European Union adopted the Guidelines on the Promotion and Protection of Freedom of Religion or Belief and said the EU will

- recall at all appropriate occasions that laws that criminalize blasphemy restrict expression concerning religious or other beliefs; that they are often applied so as to persecute, mistreat, or intimidate persons belonging to religious or other minorities, and that they can have a serious inhibiting effect on freedom of expression and on freedom of religion or belief; and recommend the decriminalisation of such offences.
- forcefully advocate against the use of the death penalty, physical punishment, or deprivation of liberty as penalties for blasphemy.

HRWF Int’l director, Willy Fautré, said: “Throughout 2013, HRWF will use this list of ‘blasphemy prisoners’ in its contributions to the EU Human Rights Dialogues with the concerned countries.”
